MRS. TRIBBEY ON STAND ALL DAY

In the Main She Repudiates Her Husband's Testimony—Recites Entire Story.

WOMAN HAS AN AFFLICTION

Which Has Caused Her Memory and Mental Powers to Fail—Waldon's Testimony.

Mrs. John Tribbey, wife of the victim, and one of the defendants accused of riotous conspiracy, was the first witness put on the stand this morning by the defense. She is a small, frail woman, and with a very weak voice, she could hardly be heard in the jury box when she testified. Mrs. Tribbey was a bit frightened at first and through her early fear it appeared as if she was reluctant to answer questions.

Mr. Watson questioned Mrs. Tribbey and the story she told of her life with the man of choice was one series of fights and quarrels and domestic bump-the-bumps.

In the main she repudiated most of the important testimony given by her husband and through which the State expected to secure convictions. Mrs. Tribbey testified that the light was not burning in her husband's room on the night of the whitecapping and therefore he could not recognize the men as he said he did.

Under oath she swore she did not know anything of the proposed whitecapping, neither did she ever try to induce any of the parties under indictment to mistreat her husband in any wise.

Mrs. Tribbey told the story of her unhappy married life. She has been married to John Tribbey some twenty-six years. For twenty-six years they have fought and lived "like cats and dogs." Down the long list of years they have had many spirited bouts, calling each other vile and obscene names and indulging in such pleasant and friendly pastimes as throwing bottles at each other, tearing each other's clothes off, striking with clubs, chairs, et cetera and running each other around with axes and other inoffensive instruments of play.

The first quarrel came as a double shuffle, with both dealing a few cards off the bottom, or at least that is what they charged each other with. Mrs. Tribbey said she found a letter containing many endearing terms, that her husband had hidden away in the barn. (Not endearing terms—the letter.) She asked him about it and blew the first note of discord. He responded with a blast from his instrument and charged her with being intimate with an old colored man named Bill Newsome, who lived in a shack across the field from their home. The negro was sixty years of age. Both charged, continued to charge and countercharge.

And there you are!

She says it was too much for her and she attempted to end it all by committing suicide. She took carbolic acid, but for some reason or another that route was blocked and she had to come back to the life she was leading. Many "small" incidents occurred, such as the bevy of beauties who came into their lives and who chose to put garlands of glad flowers around John's pate and call him their own boy. Among the "affinities" that figured prominently in their domestic life were Blanche Williams, now Alsmann, and Bertha Smith, whom Tribbey had affectionately dubbed "Sweet Bertha." Of course he only did this to make his wife angry.

All the time Mrs. Tribbey was testifying today Tribbey was all attention and climbed upon the table, used by the counsel for the State and tried to catch the eye of his former "apple of his eye."

Mrs. Tribbey told about her husband returning one day and when she asked where he had been and if he had called on the Williams girl, very angry did Johnnie become and tore a calico waist off her and reduced her skirt to a directoire effect. Later she put on a clean gingham dress and came across her husband painting the rear porch. He douzed her with paint and ruined the dress. Many such love taps did they deal to each other. Mrs. Tribbey lost some sympathy with those who sat watching her with pity in their hearts, when she admitted that she called John—well, one of those names you dare the other fellow to take it up.

The witness then told how her husband took two rings from the house, one of them being the property of his mother. Later she saw one of the rings on Blanche Williams' finger. The Williams girl was also wearing a strand of beads which Tribbey gave her, having bedecked his Cleopatra with all the artificial beauty possible. He often talked about going with Bertha Smith, referring to her as "Sweet Bertha" and with the Williams girl, and when reproached by his wife, Tribbey would declare that he would go with any girl and do what he wanted with them and that it was none of his wife's affairs.

It was impossible to hear Mrs. Tribbey testify and Judge Sparks caused new "floor plans" to be laid to better the conditions. Mrs. Tribbey was instructed to remove her chair to within a few feet of the jury box; Miss Mae Bebout, court stenographer, took a new position; Judge Sparks got "down on the level," and the attorneys on both sides closed in a few feet.

A large map of the Tribbey home was exhibited and Mr. Watson with a long chart stick, went into a description of the place, with Mrs. Tribbey showing the location of the various rooms, doors and windows. This was used afterwards to good advantage in the testimony introduced.

Mrs. Tribbey said that once she left her husband following a brawl and went to stay with the McFatrighes. There she became ill and remained in bed for over a week. During that time her husband called and wanted her to go back home. He said:

"Everything is going hell west and crooked up there and if you will come back I will never go with another girl."

She agreed to go providing he deeded her one-third of the farm. This he did. After a while he induced her to transfer the land back to him, saying he wanted to raise some money on it.

Relative to the trip to Arlington, made by Mrs. Tribbey and Perry Collins last April, she said that they went down there to see if she could catch her husband at the Williams home for she had a divorce suit under way at that time. The talk she had with Collins over the phone and heard by the "Eavesdropping Eleven" who testified previously, was for this purpose and it was then that she made arrangements to have him take her down there. When asked if she and Collins did not talk about egging Tribbey enroute to Arlington, she was not positive about what was said during their several conversations on the way.

"Did you go for the purpose of egging your husband?" asked Mr. Watson.

"No," she replied, "but something was said at some time—I do not remember just when—about egging John if he should be found at the Williams home."

She said she did not see any eggs, hear anybody mention eggs, or did not have any eggs on her person—or in a basket. (This was in the good old summer time when eggs were cheap—nobody is ever egged when the market is like it is now.)

The witness says the purpose of her trip to Arlington, and her one purpose alone was to get evidence to use in her divorce suit. This was in April, three months before the whitecapping.

Mrs. Tribbey now took up the story of the eventful night. She said she had not been sleeping with her husband as customary for several nights, owing to their trouble over "his girls," but on the night of the crime she says she slept with him for some time. She had taken her usual place at his side and been agreeable, and for some reason or another they had a disagreement and she left the room and went to sleep in a bed in the adjoining room, the door between being left open. She says he did not ask her to hook the screen door as he testified and that it was usually left open. She denied propping the door back as her husband accused her on the stand.

The first thing she remembered after she went to sleep was hearing a shrill scream. It came from her husband. Already the whitecappers were in the house and crowding around his bed. The gas jet was not lighted in his room and it would have been impossible for him to see any of them as he said he did. She raised up on her elbow and saw several forms go by an open door. She never remembered seeing anyone in her room, but soon swooned away after she realized what had occurred.

At this point Mr. Watson brought out the fact that the woman suffers from severe afflictions. She had heart trouble and is subject to violent headaches which has affected both her memory and mental powers. For several years she has been taking treatment for heart disease and was quite ill on the day before the whitecapping. She attributed her actions on this night to this cause for she declared she became exceedingly nervous. When she again regained consciousness she heard her husband crying for help. She did not know how long she had been in a dazed condition. With all the courage she could muster and with faltering footsteps she made her way to the bottom of the staircase. There she called to George Waldon. He had remained upstairs during the entire proceedings and was nearly frightened to death. She called out to him:

"Come down, George, they are beating John to death."

After summoning the colored man she became extremely nervous again and fell prostrate across the bed. The colored fellow then came down and went out into the yard and assisted the unfortunate man who had been made the victim of a mob's revenge.

Mrs. Tribbey said Waldon then came in and lighted the gas lights. Tribbey would not come into the part of the house where his wife lay on account of being nude.

Mrs. Tribbey said that she spent the remainder of the night, as did the colored man, dressing the injuries of her husband and attending to his wounds. She put hot cloths about his hips, back and face, and put vaseline over his body. He would not consent to sending for a doctor. She also testified that she picked and scraped the feathers and tar from his legs. At Tribbey's request the pair cleaned up the mess around the maple tree, for he said if they would keep it quiet maybe they could learn who the guilty parties were. Tribbey did not say to her on that night who he thought was in the mob. She had heard him talking to Waldon but she could not remember what he said as she was very nervous and her memory failed her. She remembered hearing Tribbey ask Waldon to get some poison that he might kill himself.

The next morning he asked if their son Clessie had not been there the previous afternoon. She replied that he had and that he had come for his light overcoat as he was going to a festival that night at Arlington. Not until the next day did her husband name any of the parties he thought were in the mob and then he was only guessing.

Mr. Watson asked her point blank if at any time did she ever ask or induce anybody to whip, egg, or mistreat her husband and she replied that she had not. She then testified to living with her husband since the whitecapping and said she has slept with him most of the time.

Mrs. Tribbey says her husband came to her a few days ago and told her the best thing to do and the easiest way out of it all was for her to turn State's evidence and tell all she knew of the affair. She replied that "she had no evidence to turn."

The direct examination was concluded and Prosecutor Hack took up the cross examination. The first question he asked of her was:

"Don't you intend to sue for a divorce just as soon as this is all over?"

She replied that she did not know what she would do. Hack asked her if she had not talked to Tribbey's mother about the coming trial and implored her to beseech John to let it drop. She said she had had little conversation with his mother, but she did remember saying to her on last Thanksgiving "How much better it would be if John would withdraw this case and we would all live like other people." Mrs. Tribbey cried as she recited this story.

Prosecutor Hack materially reduced the value of her testimony in the cross examination. He had her tell of many quarrels wherein she was partly or solely to blame. Hack gave a better account of himself at this time than at any other period during the trial.

Prosecutor Hack had Mrs. Tribbey recite a number of scrapes in which her husband accused her of being too intimate with the farm hands employed, dating back to the first few years of their married life. She said that he would invariably accuse her of illicit relations with them and then he would spend much time spying around watching her and the employee. This annoyed her, she said, and caused many quarrels. One man after another left the place and for one of them to stay was "three weeks." Once, she said, he accused her of being intimate with a man named Charles White and hit her with a halter strap when they tried to settle the matter. She admitted calling him a s—o—a b—, and other vile names. Court then adjourned until afternoon.

The afternoon session opened with Mrs. Tribbey on the stand again where she remained all the rest of the day. Prosecutor Hack reviewed some of the testimony he went over in the morning, having the woman tell more of her relations with the farm hands. He brought their fighting up to the time of the whitecapping and had her recount the stories of their separations and the divorce suits she instituted. She said she visited the Collins often, but did not tell them of her family troubles.

"How did they know about them, then?" asked Hack.

"You could hear John talk four miles away when he got mad," she responded.

She was then asked to refresh her memory as to what she testified to before the September grand jury regarding the purport of her visit to Arlington in company with Perry Collins. It was said that she testified at that time that they were going to throw some eggs at John Tribbey. The witness said she could not remember what she said before the grand jury. She said that she went to the home of Mack Bogue to live when she left her husband the first time and sued for divorce. Later she agreed to go back if he would give her money enough to pay the costs of the case and have it dismissed. Afterwards they parted again when "the eternal girl question" came up. She said Tribbey was going to see the Williams girl three times a week at Arlington and she knew it.

Prosecutor Hack asked her the question direct:

Isn't it a fact that you made all the arrangements for these people to come to your house and whip your husband on the day previous to the whitecapping?"

"No," she said.

"Didn't you tell your husband the day before that if he knew what was good for him he would take the next car out of town and stay away?"

"No sir."

"And didn't you say to him if he remained he would find himself hanging to a tree sometime soon?"

"No sir," replied the witness.

Mr. Watson reviewed some of the testimony again and the witness left the stand about four o'clock.

The deposition of Mrs. Samuel Worland was read by Miss Mae Bebout. It was taken last night at the home of the woman who is ill. She testified that Mrs. Tribbey said to her in June that Tribbey should be given a good beating by the McFatrigh boys on account of the way he treated their mother.

The trial will continue longer than anyone anticipated at the beginning. The defense has some hundred and twenty witnesses to testify yet, and they said this evening that the cases would probably continue until next Wednesday. Mr. Watson will make arrangements to remain here until the trial is over.

Clessie Tribbey, son of John Tribbey, took the stand late this evening.

Hired Man Talks

The State finished with their witnesses yesterday afternoon and George Waldon, Tribbey's farm hand, first witness for the defense, was called to the stand.

He was at the Tribbey home on the night of the whitecapping and in his story of the affair refuted the story told by John Tribbey in many instances.

The witness testified that Mr. and Mrs. Tribbey frequently quarreled and that he always went out whenever the squabbles came up. Waldon described the fuss which Tribbey and his wife had out in the road on the first day he was there. He also told of another argument when Tribbey caught his wife by the shoulder, tore her dress and called her vile names. "This was a daily occurrence," said Waldon. The witness testified that Tribbey frequently came home and said: "I saw sweet Bertha" and then another argument would be started. He described another quarrel they had out in the yard when Mrs. Tribbey ran her husband in the house with an ax and he took the axe from Mrs. Tribbey's hands. And at another time Tribbey pushed his wife over a rocking chair, seized the chair and broke it and exclaimed, "You are acting a fool."

The judge had to frequently rap for order during the above testimony.

Waldon said that on the night of the whitecapping, while sleeping upstairs, he was awakened by Mrs. Tribbey, who said: "George, they have John outside beating him to death." Waldon immediately dressed and rushed down stairs, and heard Tribbey cry as he went out into the yard, "Oh God! they have killed me." He found him tied to a tree and cut him loose. They both went into the house. It was at this point that Waldon's story differed from Tribbey's. He testified that the light was not lighted in the front room when he went to bed nor when he came down to see what was the matter, but that there was a light in the kitchen. Tribbey said upon the stand that the light was burning brightly in the front room and that he was able to distinguish the members of the party. Waldon said Mrs. Tribbey bathed her husband's wounds all during the night and put grease on his back several times. He also testified that he saw no tar or feathers on his body at that time. That his back was not bleeding and that his face was not very badly bruised or swollen. Waldon asked Tribbey who he thought did it. Tribbey replied that it was Harry Goldman, Guernsey Drysdale, Lafayette Goldman and four in the family. Tribbey then said to his wife, "Your son was standing in there at the head of the bed with a 'katy' hat on."

Tribbey asked Waldon to go out and clean up the mess, for he said, "Someone would come piking around and see it." This Waldon refused to do, according to his testimony, without someone's assistance. He and Mrs. Tribbey finally went out and raked up all of the trash and burned it.

"Was there any agreement between you three to keep this affair quiet?"

asked Congressman Watson.

"No sir," replied the witness.

Waldon said that he asked Tribbey the first thing after they got up Thursday morning, who he thought did it, and he said, "Harry Goldman, Henry Conoway, Lafayette Goldman, Guernsey Drysdale, and four in the family." The witness testified that he saw Perry Collins that morning as he was going after the cows and Collins asked, "How is everything?" Waldon replied, "Had a spanking at our house last night."

The witness said that he went to Arlington in the morning and bought amica fo Tribbey, but that he did not seem to need it very bad because he was out around the barn during the day. But still looked like he was in great pain. Waldon said that on Friday he and Tribbey walked to the woods and that he (Tribbey) did not complain all day.

Congressman Watson then put the following questions to the witness, which he answered in the negative.

"Did Tribbey say about 2 o'clock Thursday morning that he did not know who did it?"

"When you asked Tribbey later in the day who he thought it was, did he reply that he did not know because they had a sack over his head?"

Waldon was then turned over to the State for cross-examination.

His testimony was about the same as given on direct examination. Attorney Meek brought out the fact that Waldon had no permanent home and roamed about, working for first one person and then another. The witness testified again that quarrels in the Tribbey family were frequent and that he always tried to avoid them. Waldon was not so sure whether Tribbey's wife had washed tar and feathers off her husband's legs and now said that he believed he had seen a few feathers on the ground when he cleaned up the mess around the tree on Thursday morning, but still held to the fact that he did not see the rope on that occasion.

"Is it not a fact George that scarcely anything was done for Tribbey during the night after he was whipped?" asked attorney Meek.

"No Sir," replied the witness. "Mrs. Tribbey was doctoring him continually up until the time I went to Arlington that morning."

Waldon was asked if he did not testify in the court of inquiry at Arlington during the month of August that he saw a buggy pass that night and had a few moments before said that he did not see one. He would give no definite answer to this question.

"Did you not testify in the court of inquiry that you did not see Perry Collins on Thursday following the whitecapping?" was asked the witness. No definite answer to this question could be obtained.

"Have you had any conversation with Collins or McFatrigh in regard to this case?"

"No Sir!"

"Have you talked to anyone about this matter?"

"Perhaps, don't remember."

"Have you talked to anyone about what your testimony would be?"

"No Sir!"

The witness was then dismissed by the State and Congressman Watson asked him one more question before allowing him to go.

"There were several questions asked you in the court of inquiry. Did you know at that time what they had reference to?"

"No sir, replied Waldon.

Court was then adjourned until this morning.

CHESTER PERIN WINS PRIZE

Chester Perin of 612 West Third street won the Missing Word prize for last night. The words missing were "special" in the Home Furnishing Co's ad and "buying" in E. A. Lee's ad. Quite a large number of replies were received but only one found correct.

Lesson X.—Fourth Quarter, For Dec. 6, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Kings iii, 4-15. Memory Verses, 11, 12—Golden Text, Prov. ix, 10—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1908, by American Press Association.]

In some Bible studies there are some words which we do well to carry with us through those studies, and in this lesson and the next we should remember these words: "Then sat Solomon upon the throne of David, his father, and his kingdom was established greatly." "Then Solomon sat on the throne of the Lord as king instead of David, his father, and prophesied, and all Israel obeyed him" (I Kings ii, 12; I Chron. xxix, 23). Another name was given to Solomon at his birth with which some do not seem to be familiar. It is written, "The Lord loved him, and He sent by the hand of Nathan, the prophet, and he called his name Jedidiah (beloved of the Lord) because of the Lord" (II Sam. xii, 24, 25). The name Solomon, which means "peaceable," was given to him before he was born (I Chron. xxii, 9, margin). How beautifully suggestive the two names—beloved of the Lord, a man of rest, the Lord giving peace and quietness in his days. How sadly he failed to let God work out his plan! How perfectly it will be wrought out in the true Son of David, of whom God said, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased" (Matt. iii, 17; xvii, 5).

How strangely do the first three verses of our lesson chapter read in the light of God's commands to have no fellowship with the heathen nations or their idols, affinity with Pharaoh, king of Egypt; marrying his daughter, loving the Lord and walking in His statutes, yet sacrificing and burning incense in high places! It sounds a good deal like the worldly combinations of today, which must so grieve the Spirit, for we are plainly told that whosoever will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God (Jas. iv, 4). In these days the tabernacle and the brazen altar were at Gibeon, but the ark of the covenant was in the tent at Jerusalem which David had pitched for it, and to Gibeon Solomon and his people went to offer burnt offerings unto the Lord (verse 4; I Chron. xxi, 29; II Chron. i, 1-6). All the offerings appointed by God were typical of the one great offering of His Son, who by the sacrifice of Himself put away the sins of all who receive Him. Only by Him have we access to God, and only by Him can we truly worship God or serve Him, and for His sake God does all things for His people, notwithstanding their unworthiness.

So we read that in that night Jehovah appeared to Solomon, and God said unto him, "Ask what I shall give thee" (verse 5; II Chron. i, 7). God is the Creator, to whom nothing is too hard or wonderful (Jer. xxxiii, 17), and Jehovah is God coming to man in grace and a righteousness which He Himself gives by virtue of His great sacrifice. He is the same one who when here in humiliation said to a poor blind man, "What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee?" (Luke xviii, 41). He said to the apostles and through them to us: "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you." " whatsoever ye shall ask in My name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask anything in My name, I will do it" (John xv, 7; xvi, 13, 14). There is a word also in this connection in Isa. xlv, 11, "Concerning the work of my hands, command ye me," in reference to which the late John Wilkinson once wrote me, "It is strong language, and though it is the Jews' by interpretation, we can take it by application, and I take it in the modern sense of 'your wishes are commands to me'; press your desires and hold me to my word." Here is something we seem to know little about, for we are so lacking in oneness with Him in His purpose.

In reply to God's great offer Solomon rehearsed the facts concerning the present situation, the great mercy and kindness that had been shown to his father David, his own position as king over so great a people by the grace of God and the great need of wisdom and understanding to rule so great a people, and he said, "Give me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people" (verses 6-9; II Chron. i, 8-10). Judah and Israel were said to be many as the sand which is by the sea in multitude, dwelling safely, every man under his vine and under his fig tree, and so God gave Solomon wisdom and understanding exceeding much, and largeness of heart, even as the sand that is on the seashore, making him to excel all the wisdom of the east and of Egypt, so that people came from all kings to hear and see (I Kings iv, 20, 25, 29, 30, 34).

Because of Solomon's request God not only gave him what he asked, but also riches and honor, which he had not asked (verses 10-14; II Chron. i, 11, 12), making us think of Eph. iii, 20, 21, and of Him who, speaking of the queen of Sheba's visit to Solomon, said, "A greater than Solomon is here" (Matt. xii, 42). He is the wisdom of God and has said to us by His Spirit "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him" (I Cor. i, 24, 30; Jas. i, 5). He is ready to be our wisdom for every day, every hour, every moment, every emergency, every person we have to deal with.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 6, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.
Topic.—Commending our society.—VI. By consistent living.—Jas. iii, 10-13. Consistent meeting.

Profession without possession is a fashion in religion as well as in every other relation in life. The man who professes to be a Christian and whose life is inconsistent does intolerable harm both to himself and to others. He harms himself, for if the counterfeit is of any value to him the reality would be of much greater value, and when it comes to religion God's grace is free and accessible to all, and it is even easier to be a true Christian than a false professor of religion. The inconsistent Christian also harms others. There is perhaps no greater stumbling block in the way of unsaved men who really want to be saved than the inconsistencies of the many who profess to be Christians. It should not be so, but nevertheless it is. Who would judge a physician by a patient who only pretended to take his medicine, but really did not do so? Who would judge a lawyer by a client who only pretended to follow the counsel he had given? Why should men, then, judge Christianity on a different basis? Look at the Christ, who was sinless! Behold the multitudes of Christians who in spite of all the temptations of life do possess the Christ spirit and live a consistent Christian life! If men would do this they would be dealing honestly with Christianity, judging it by the real coin instead of by the counterfeit. But all inconsistency is not in the church. Inconsistent judgment is no better than an inconsistent life, and yet many will doubt or deny the power of real Christianity because they know some inconsistent Christians, not realizing their own inconsistency in so doing.

After all, though, consistent Christian living is invaluable. It is invaluable to ourselves. If we do not live up to what we confess, it is absolute proof that our confession is false. If consciously and knowingly we engage in a sinful life, we must know in our own hearts that we have only the form and not the power of religion. But what is the form without the reality? What is the shadow without the substance? For our own sakes let us examine ourselves and see if by a changed life we can prove that our hearts have been really changed by the power of the Holy Ghost. James well says that a sweet fountain cannot send forth bitter water, nor a fig tree bear olives, nor a grapevine figs.

A consistent Christian life on the part of professing Christians is invaluable to all with whom we come in contact in life. Men may not read the Bible, but they read us. They may know little about Christ first hand, but they will get their conceptions of Him through us. "We are living epistles, known and read of all men." And what do they read in us, in our daily life, our speech, our actions? Do they read that we "have been with Jesus," or do they read a misrepresentation of Christ that keeps them from finding the real Christ?

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. xxii, 1; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Isa. i, 1-4; Matt. vi, 1-8; vii, 1-5; John iv, 24; Acts ii, 43-47; Matt. vii, 15-20; II Cor. iii, 1-6.

Our Missions to the Young.

Christian Endeavor has a mission, a many sided mission, to the young people of America and of the world. One prominent feature in that mission is its educational value. The ancient Greek idea of education was to produce a man of wisdom and a man of action, and Christian Endeavor is doing both. Phoenix says of the education of Achilles:

In all this I was set by him to instruct thee as my son,
That thou mightst speak when speech was fit and do what should be done,
Not sit as dumb for want of words, idle for skill to move.

Now, no modern institution has done so much as Christian Endeavor for developing the power of speech "when speech is fit" now for organizing activity in all spheres of life. A new vision of utility is forming itself for us in our civic relationships, and the Patriots' league is as a cloud the size of a man's hand, destined to grow, however, until the whole sky be covered.

Christian Endeavor is going to write this ideal upon the hearts of its 4,000,000 members and in a decade or two will help to flood the country and fill the polling booths with men—and women, for their suffrage is coming—that will fight graft and injustice with all the energy and strength of Christian righteousness and fair play and brotherhood.—Ripple in Christian Endeavor World.

He Said "Can."

Secretary Hubbell in the Ohio Endeavorer gives the following account of an Endeavorer that "gingered up."

A short time since a young person named Davis took charge of the Steuben Congregational church. The Endeavor society numbered ten and was unanimously feminine. Some folks said "You can't." Mr. Davis sized up but did not give up, the situation. He did not say "I can" or "You can," but he did say "We can!"

And they can—so optimistically that they have secured forty new members, twenty-five of them young men. In the lives of some a radical transformation has taken place. The faithful pastor is rewarded by an active society of fifty, and they are after twenty-five more members.

Peruse ye postscript preaching: "I never pays to give up. It always pays to 'ginger up.'"

The pledge gives edge to Endeavoring.—Christian Endeavor World.

ADROITLY TURNED.

It Was a Small Hole, but the Englishman Crawled Out.

"I was watching a number of young Englishmen shooting at a target recently while I was on the other side," remarked an American army officer, "and at my elbow was a pompous Britisher of the old school, who, after shaking his head impatiently at the frequent misses that were made, at length said to me: 'That only goes to show how the young men of England are degenerating. All this sort of thing reflects on the British nation.'"

"It certainly is mighty poor shooting," I agreed.

"At that the old gentleman flared up and exclaimed: 'I say! Perhaps you can do better, sir?'"

"If I couldn't shoot better than that, I'd be ashamed to eat breakfast," I answered.

"Thereupon I was handed a rifle and told to show what I could do. I shot, and the first time I missed the target completely, so the laugh was on me, but before they could laugh twice I plugged the bullseye six times in rapid succession. At this the old gentleman was a trifle disconcerted, but he complimented me by saying: 'Really, now, you can shoot a bit, can't you? I say, there's nothing like a Yankee marksman with an English gun, is there, old chap?'"—Los Angeles Times.

GHOSTS ARE STILL CAUSING TROUBLE

George Richardson and a Specter Pulled Off a "Stunt" in East Seventh street.

ATTEMPTED TO EVADE WOMAN

The ghosts still inhabit and walk in the vicinity of East Seventh street. The last "stunt" reported is a thrilling episode in which George Richardson, colored, and a ghost pulled off. It was near the deadly hour of midnight. Richardson was walking along Seventh street when a woman accosted him. He side stepped her and let her pass. He went but a few feet when the woman appeared in front of him again. This frightened him and as he stepped to one side the woman got in front of him and in another instant he found he was walking through the specter. Richardson was now frightened out of his wits and speech. The woman appeared again in front of him and disappeared like a puff of smoke, after the order of the disappearing picture at the motion picture theater.

READ THIS OFFER

We Guarantee Parisian Sage to Cure Dandruff, Stop Falling Hair or Itching of the Scalp, in Two Weeks or Money Back.

The above is an offer we are most proud to make. It is an offer that no man or woman need be ashamed to accept. Parisian Sage is the quickest acting and most rejuvenating hair restorer in the world.

Its magical qualities have made it famous wherever it has been introduced.

It is the only hair restorer sold with an absolute guarantee to cure dandruff, stop falling hair or itching of the scalp.

It cures dandruff by killing the germs, and it kills them so promptly that the most skeptical give it their warmest praise.

But Parisian Sage is more than a cure for dandruff—it will make hair grow on any head where the hair bulb is not already dead.

And we want every reader of the Daily Republican to know that Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world. It is the most pleasant to use, and its effect is so invigorating and refreshing, that it pleases everybody.

And to the ladies we wish to emphasize the fact that Parisian Sage is the only hair tonic in the world guaranteed to make the hair grow luxuriant, soft and beautiful.

The girl with the Auburn hair is on the outside package of every bottle of Parisian Sage F. B. Johnson & Co. sell it for 50 cents a large bottle, or you can get it direct, all express charges prepaid, from Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo N. Y.

SHOT SOUNDED ON THE STILL NIGHT AIR

People Rushed in Direction From Which Sound Came and Found Price Standing.

WITH A SMOKING REVOLVER

At a late hour last night a shot, which sounded like the first cannon boom at the opening of a battle, rang out on the still night air. The few people who were upon the streets and several who were in the down-town stores rushed in the direction from which the sound came.

There stood City Marshal Price with a smoking revolver in his hand, looking from side to side as if he was searching for some invisible foe. The terrified on-lookers were about to take to their heels when Officer Price explained that he had taken a shot at a stray dog which he thought was acting strangely. It developed that the dog had attempted to bite the officer and that he, after kicking the animal off, had shot at it. The canine scampered away unhurt and nothing more was seen of it.

HAVE ORGANIZED LARGE ORCHESTRA

Services Will be Donated to the Men's Big Meetings During the Winter.

A. P. WAGONER TO BE LEADER

A special orchestra of nine pieces has been organized by A. P. Wagoner and George C. Wyatt for the first number of the Men's Big Meetings to be held at the Main Street Christian church next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Dr. Guy Potter Benton, president of Miami University, will deliver his lecture on "The Life That Now Is."

The orchestra, which is made up of local musicians, has donated its services for the winter meetings. It will be remembered that a similar orchestra was organized last winter for the Men's Big Meetings and did well under the leadership of A. P. Wagoner.

Several male soloists of this city will be on the musical program and a very interesting meeting for Sunday afternoon is assured.

WORK OF TEACHERS WAS COMMENDED

Dr. Hurty, Visited Havens Building Yesterday While Here For Medical Association Meeting.

PAIRED THE VENTILLATION

Dr. John Hurty of Indianapolis, secretary of the State Board of Health, who was here yesterday attending the Fifth annual meeting of the Sixth Council district of the Indiana Medical Association, visited the Havens school building in West Third street.

Dr. Hurty visited all of the rooms in the building and commented upon the healthy condition of the children and their general appearance. He said, "although you have not the latest apparatus and general improvements in your building, your ventilation and sanitary conditions are excellent and you are to be congratulated upon the general appearance of everything. If it were not true that the Janitors and teachers worked in perfect unity, you would probably have one of the poorest buildings of the State." He commented on various things about the grounds and said that the ethics of the instructors had much to do with this. The teachers in the building are very much pleased to have their work praised by Dr. Hurty.

THE PUBLIC BENEFITTED

Rushville People Greatly Interested in the Generous Offer of Lytle's Drug Store.

The people have already demonstrated that they would rather trust a man who is naturally honest, than one who was honest only because he had to be.

Lytle's Drug Store has a firmly established reputation for square dealing and sterling honesty. When they told the people that Rexall Remedies are the purest and most dependable remedies that it is possible for modern science to produce, and that they would tell the public exactly what one of these 300 remedies contained, and that they sold Rexall Remedies on their own personal guarantee that they would give entire satisfaction or the medicine would not cost the user a single cent, they were believed.

Ever since this announcement Lytle's Drug Store has been crowded by people buying Rexall Remedies; of which proves that Lytle's Drug Store has the confidence of the people and that honesty is the best policy.

There is no "cure-all" among the Rexall Remedies,—there are 300 different and separate medicines; one of each human ill, and each unquestionably the best of its kind.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are particularly recommended for the positive cure of stomach irritation, indigestion and dyspepsia. They are rich in Bismuth, Subnitrate Pepsin and Carminatives, and are prepared by a special process which perfects and enhances the great curative value of these well-known medicinal agents. This remedy sells for 25c, a package. Everyone suffering from a stomach disorder should try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, inasmuch as they cost nothing if they do not satisfy.

Lytle's Drug Store is certainly fortunate in securing control of the sale of these remedies, and we urge everyone in need of medicine to investigate and take advantage of their frank and generous offer.

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS,
Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

"Will you please prove equal to the situation?" she said under her breath, but with a charming smile. "Do you know you are scowling? These people here are ready to laugh, and I'd much prefer that they tear us to rags on suspicion of our overfriendliness."

"Who is that fool woman who is monopolizing your partner?"

"Rosamund Fane. She's doing it on purpose. You must try to smile now and then."

"My face is stiff with grinning," he said, "but I'll do what I can for you"—

"Please include yourself too."

"Oh, I can stand their opinions," he said. "I only meet the yellow set occasionally. I don't herd with them."

"I do, thank you."

"How do you like them? What is your opinion of the yellow set? Here they sit all about you—the Phoenix Mottlys, Mrs. Delmour-Carnes yonder, the Drymores, the Orchills, the Vendennings lady, the Lawns of West-lawn—he paused, then deliberately—and the Jack Ruthvens. I forgot, Alixe, that you are now perfectly equipped to carry aloft the golden rod."

"Go on," she said, drawing a deep breath. She forced a smile and drew her glass toward her. The straw tinted wine slopped over and frothed on the white skin of her arm.

"Well," she breathed, "this ghastly dinner is nearly ended."

He nodded pleasantly.

"And Phil?" a bit tremulous.

"What?"

"Was it all my fault—I mean in the beginning? I've wanted to ask you that—to know your view of it. Was it?"

"No. It was mine—most of it."

"Not all—not half. We did not know how. That is the wretched explanation of it all."

"And we could never have learned. That's the rest of the answer. But the fault is not there."

"I know—better to bear the ills we have."

"Yes; more respectable to bear them. Let us drop this in decency's name, Alixe."

After a silence she began: "One more thing. I must know it, and I am going to ask you if I may. Shall I?"

He smiled cordially, and she laughed as though confiding a delightful bit of news to him.

"Do you regard me as sufficiently important to dislike me?"

"I do not—dislike you."

"Is it stronger than dislike, Phil?"

"Yes."

"Content?"

"No."

"What is it?"

"It is that—I have not yet—become—reconciled."

"To my—folly?"

"To mine."

She strove to laugh lightly and, failing, raised her glass to her lips again.

"Now you know," he said, pitching his tones still lower. "I am glad, after all, that we have had this plain understanding. I have never felt unkindly toward you. I can't. What you did I might have prevented had I known enough, but I cannot help it now, nor can you if you would."

"If I would," she repeated gayly, for the people opposite were staring.

"We are done for," he said, nodding carelessly to a servant to refill his glass, "and I abide by conditions because I chose to, not," he added contemptuously, "because a complacent law has tethered you to—the thing that has crawled up on your knees to have its ears rubbed."

The level insult to her husband stunned her. She sat there, upright, the white smile stamped on her stiffened lips, fingers tightening about the stem of her wineglass.

He began to toss bread crumbs to the scarlet fish, laughing to himself in an ugly way. "Why, Alixe, only look at him! Look at his gold wristlets; listen to his snapper, his lisp. Little girl—oh, little girl, what have you done to yourself, for you have done nothing to me, child, that can match it in sheer atrocity?"

Her color was long in returning.

"Phillip," she said unsteadily, "I don't think I can stand this"—

"Yes, you can."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and salivary complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

"The boy is thoroughbred," she reflected.

Mrs. Ruthven is one of the most charming women I know, if that is what you mean."

Looking after him as he made his way toward the cloakroom, "The boy is thoroughbred," she reflected cynically, "and the only amusement anybody can get out of it will be at my expense! Rosamund is a perfect cat!"

SIMON ENTERS CAPITAL TODAY

Victorious Haitien Rebel to Be Named President.

THE PEOPLE ARE ALL FOR HIM

The Turn of Events in the Troubled Black Republic Has Made the Victorious Rebel Leader the Logical Nominee of All Factions on the Island, and It is Likely That the Chambers Will Call Him to the Presidency Without Delay in Order to Restore Tranquillity.

Port au Prince, Dec. 4.—The sentiment of the people is strongly in favor of General Simon, and he will probably be elected president, if the chambers can be assembled without delay. General Simon arrived at Port au Prince with a strong army under him this morning. A delegation composed of seven prominent citizens went to meet the revolutionary leader and acquainted him with the fact that Nord Alexis had gone aboard the Duguay Trouin. They then invited him to come into the capital without delay.

For many hours following the flight of Nord Alexis riot and pillage prevailed in Port au Prince. The populace, maddened by the spirit of revolt, turned from the skiff that carried their deposed president to the French training ship Duquay Trouin, and gave full vent to their passions. They looted stores and residences and fought among themselves over the booty and were only held in check by an armed force hastily gathered together by General Poldevin, which fired a volley into the mob and drove the rioters from street to street and finally into seclusion. In all, twelve persons were killed and many wounded before order was restored.

So serious did the situation become that a committee of public safety composed of the most prominent military leaders was organized. Scores of citizens were placed under arms to assist the loyal troops in patrolling the city, and today comparative tranquillity reigns. The American, French and German ministers decided that they could trust to the arrangements made by the committee to maintain order, but they jointly gave notification that if disorders commenced they would land forces from the warships. Those already here were reinforced by the United States gunboat Eagle and the British cruiser Scylla.

Nord Alexis has been the object of much consideration on the part of the commander of the ship and the other officers. There is something in the wonderful virility of the fallen president that holds the admiration. Past ninety years—how many years beyond that mark nobody knows—Nord Alexis faced his foes with the strength and determination of a man in the very prime of life. Not until he saw his people, those that he had fought for and ruled, in front of the palace crying for his life, did he realize that they had turned against him. Only then did he accept the protection of the French flag.

Nord Alexis has lost the vigor of former days and appears quite feeble in body, though his mind is active and clear. Never at any time as president had he been a communicative man, and the events of the last forty-eight hours seem to rest heavily upon him. The only satisfaction that he felt, he said, was in the loyalty of his bodyguard, who had remained faithful to him until the last. He spoke with deep gratitude of what the French minister, M. Carteron, had done, and several times during the interview alluded to the fact that it was due to the efforts of the minister that he was enabled to leave the palace in safety and gain the refuge of the warship. Of General Gabriel, his nephew, who during the last few months had directed the policy of the government, and General Guillaume, the only other official of his staff who remained true to him, he spoke in terms of praise. Their loyalty consoled him for the cowardly desertion of all the other ministers. He particularly denounced the treachery of General Celestin Cyriaque, minister of war, who was the first commander he sent out to quell the insurrection and hold back General Antoine Simon.

The president was broken-hearted over the attitude of his people in the capital, of whose hostility he declared he was entirely ignorant. "They always cheered me when I appeared in the streets," he said, mournfully, "and I have always labored for their good." He protested against the "legend" that he had ever shown any enmity toward the whites, but declared that he had had the best interests of all ever close to his heart.

For the first time Nord Alexis expressed his views with regard to the summary executions which took place on March 15 last, when many men were shot to death by order of General

Leconte. He had always been convinced, he said, that these men had been killed during an attack upon the palace; his officials and those upon whom he depended had kept back the truth from him. But he had learned later and considered this act a very unfortunate one.

With regard to his destination, Nord Alexis said that he would wait until he could be transported to Jamaica, St. Thomas or Martinique.

More Indictments Returned.
Union City, Tenn., Dec. 4.—Twenty-four additional indictments have been returned by the grand jury investigating the recent raids of the night riders of Reelfoot lake, bringing the total number of indictments so far returned to 123. Other than that the majority of the indictments charge capital offenses, the strictest secrecy is maintained as to their contents.

"Guilty" Was the Verdict.
Salt Lake City, Dec. 4.—"Guilty" was the verdict of the jury in the United States district court before which the Union Pacific railway, the Union Pacific Coal company, the Oregon Short Line, Everett Buckingham and J. M. Moore have been tried for conspiring in restraint of interstate commerce and thereby violating the laws of the United States.

STRIKE BLOW AT GRADE CROSSING

Railroad Commissioners of Four States Get Together.

IN INTEREST OF HUMAN LIFE

In Order to Curtail Grade Crossing Fatalities, Now Averaging About One Thousand Annually, the Railroad Commissioners of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Michigan Form an Association, With the Purpose of Acquiring Control of the Crossings of Railways and Public Highways.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Members of the railway commissions of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio have formed the North Central Association of railroad Commissioners. C. L. Glasgow of Michigan was chosen first president; F. S. Boyce of Illinois, vice president and William Kilpatrick, also of Illinois, secretary. The primary purpose of the new organization will be to have the control of the crossings of railways and public highways taken from the various county and township authorities and given to the railroad commissioners of the various states to the end that the number of grade crossing fatalities, now averaging 1,000 annually, may be curtailed and ultimately done away with by the elimination of grade crossings.

WOULDN'T STAND TEST

Indictments Against Prominent Indianapolis Dismissed.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 4.—The indictments charging embezzlement against Frank M. Favre, Harry B. Gates and C. Edgar Elliott, all of Indianapolis, directors of the Marion Contract and Construction company, returned by the November grand jury, have been dismissed in the criminal court here on motion of Commonwealth's Attorney J. M. Huffaker, who took the grounds that the men were not guilty of anything criminal, and that the indictments would not stand the test in court.

In the indictments as returned the three defendants were accused of using $47,000 of the construction company's money to purchase stock in the Louisville & Eastern railroad for their own use and benefit. The indictments followed suits to throw both companies in the hands of receivers.

Suspensions Officially Confirmed.

Sullivan, Ind., Dec. 4.—After an investigation into the death of Melvin Tennis, the mine electrician, whose mangled body was found Saturday night on a spur of the Evansville & Terre Haute road, in the northeastern part of the county, Coroner Brewer has returned a verdict to the effect that Tennis was killed by unknown persons by having his skull fractured by blows with a heavy iron bolt. The verdict confirms the opinion generally held that Tennis was murdered and robbed and his body placed on the tracks in order that the train might, by mangling the body, conceal the murder. There is no clue to the perpetrators of the crime.

Taken Away for Safe Keeping.

Brownstown, Ind., Dec. 4.—Prompt action by the authorities averted the possibility of mob law in the case of a negro who is alleged to have assaulted Mrs. Harold Dannett near her home two miles south of Seymour. The negro was first taken to Seymour, but was hurried from there to this place when a crowd formed at the jail. A crowd also gathered here and the authorities immediately obtained an order for the negro's removal to Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville for safe keeping. The negro was tracked by bloodhounds for eighteen hours and finally was run down thirty miles from the scene of the crime.

More About Lamphere.

Laporte, Ind., Dec. 4.—Attorney H. W. Worden has made public a letter written by Ray Lamphere to his mother, immediately after he had been sentenced to state's prison for burning the Guinness house, in which he protests his innocence of the crimes for which he was tried and congratulated himself that he escaped being one of the alleged Guinness victims. Lamphere has been assigned to work in the carpentering department of the state prison.

KELLOGG'S PATH STILL BLOCKED

Government Inquisitor Can't Find Out About That Big Loan.

ARCHBOLD GIVES NO LIGHT

Cross-Examination of Vice President of the Standard Oil Company Leaves Federal Counsel as Much in the Dark as Ever Regarding Mysterious Loans Aggregating $22,000,000 Made to Man Who Had Testified He Knew Nothing About Them and Had Never Received the Money.

New York, Dec. 4.—Efforts on the part of federal counsel to obtain information regarding the loans aggregating $22,000,000 to P. S. Trainer by the Southern Pipe Line company, a Standard subsidiary, came to nothing in the cross-examination of John D. Archbold in the government suit to dissolve the so-called trust. For over a year Frank B. Kellogg, government inquisitor, has pursued every trail to find out the purpose of these large loans, but today he appeared to be no nearer the solution of the mystery than when he first propounded the question of these borrowings.

Mr. Archbold said that he knew of no reason for the loans which, he said, might have represented the adjustments between refining companies which Mr. Trainer supplied with oil. Mr. Trainer, who is connected with the Standard's pipe-line system, had previously testified that he did not know of the loans and never received the money.

With the exception of a few questions which will be asked about certain exhibits which will be placed in evidence later, the cross-examination of Mr. Archbold has been concluded, and an adjournment has been taken until next Monday. H. M. Tilford, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, and J. A. Moffett, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, will likely follow Mr. Archbold on the stand, after whom William Rockefeller will be called.

Much of Mr. Archbold's cross-examination had to do with rebates paid by the railroads in the early days. Mr. Archbold took the position that the rebates at that time were a matter of bargaining, in which each shipper strove to obtain the best terms.

Some amusement was created when Mr. Archbold declared that when one obtained a rate from a railroad man he was not always sure but that on his way home the railroad man would give some other shipper a lower rate.

The government counsel interrogated the witness regarding testimony given in a Pennsylvania oil suit in which A. J. Cassatt, then vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, testified that the Standard received larger rebates from the Pennsylvania than any other shipper. Mr. Archbold said he had no recollection of Mr. Cassatt's testimony. The vice president of the Standard declared that his company was in no way favored by oil tariffs of the United States.

Churches Getting Together.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4.—With a unanimity of action that went far beyond the expectations of the leading spirits in the movement for unity of church action, the federal council of the churches of Christ in America, has begun its business sessions. The organization of the council has been practically completed and the delegates, of whom there are more than 400, representing thirty-three denominations, with a membership of about 18,000,000, have entered upon the real work of the council. Bishop E. R. Hendrix, D.D., of Kansas City, Mo., of the Methodist Episcopal church south, was honored with the presidency of the federal council by a unanimous vote of the delegates.

A Mysterious Shipment.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Church robes, tapestries and ecclesiastical antiques which may prove to be treasures scattered when the monks were driven from their seclusion in France, have been discovered in the warehouse of a customs broker in Chicago. The goods are said to have entered this country from France some months ago addressed to one "S. Robinson," in care of the warehouse of Waken & McLaughlin. Their listed valuation was $2,500, but recently they were appraised at $15,000.

Murderer Escapes Gallows.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 4.—Robert Hocker, a negro sentenced to hang today at Lexington, has obtained commutation to life imprisonment by the act of Governor Willson. Hocker shot Newton Veal, a prominent farmer, to death, the evidence showing that the murder was cold-blooded. Governor Willson says in commuting the sentence that he was satisfied that the entire story was not told.

Brayfield Denies Guilt.

Benton, Ill., Dec. 4.—Dr. B. F. Brayfield, who was arraigned in court here, pleaded not guilty to the murder of Reuben F. Parrish, Illinois Central railroad agent at Mulkeytown, by the administration of poison, as charged in an indictment. He was released on bail of $5,000.

AGED MILLER DIES VERY SUDDENLY

G. T. Richey, 75 years old, died suddenly this afternoon at the home of Frank Wooster, on the Indianapolis road, where he roomed. The cause of his death was probably rheumatism. Mr. Richey came here a few weeks ago, and was employed at the C. G. Clark & Sons' flouring mill. He complained all morning of not feeling well, but no one suspected that he was at death's door. Coroner Coleman was called to make official investigation.

His son, who owns a large lumber mill at Humboldt, Texas, has been informed by telegraph of his father's sudden death and arrangements for the disposition of the body will be decided on later.

WATSON SAYS HE IS NOT GOING TO MOVE

Story From Terre Haute Was Not Authorized by Him and He Denies It.

RUSHVILLE IS HIS HOME

When asked today regarding the story of his proposed removal to Terre Haute, Congressman Watson declared there was no truth in it or any grounds for the statement.

The story came from Terre Haute and appeared in the Indianapolis Star this morning. The story follows:

"James E. Watson, defeated Republican candidate for Governor, may take up the practice of law in Terre Haute, forming a partnership with James E. Piety, who a few days ago gave up the Vigo county bench. Said Mr. Piety tonight:

"Mr. Watson says he wanted to move to a larger city. While in Congress, of course, he could not think of leaving his district, but now he wants a larger field to engage in the practice of law."

According to Judge Piety, Mr. Watson has been in Terre Haute considering a location and he is said to have spoken favorably of the proposed partnership."
